AHS Capstone Fall 2014

Synopsis

Building upon my mixed media AHS concentration, my AHS Capstone Project will be the formulation of the design of an interactive public art installation. With intention to execute the installation of the art piece in the Spring 2015 semester, the project scope will focus solely on the exploration and design of the installation. The AHS Capstone project consists of three main deliverables beside those set by the course: documentation of the design process within a sketchbook, polished sketchbook, and artist's statement.

The final art installation design, Life Ticks By, gives community members an opportunity to re-evaluate how they utilize their time throughout their daily lives. The art piece enables them to take a moment of reflection so that they take a break from routine. It encourages people to pause, take control, and become more aware of how obsessive regularity correlates to passively living. Ultimately, Life Ticks By allows people to manipulate their personal time, forcing them to realize that they need to stop and look around once in a while to gain control of their lives.
